19 I, ROBERT J. ERNST III, declare:

- 20 1. I am a creditor of one or both of the debtors in this action. My claim No. is 3444.
- 21 2. I am a citizen of California and over the age of 18. I reside at 4500 Viejo Road, Carmel,
- 22 CA 93923. The facts stated herein are of my own knowledge, except as to those stated on
- 23 information and belief, and of those I believe them to be true.
- 24 3. I am a customer of PG&E, which provides electricity to my home at 4500 Viejo Road,
- 25 Carmel, CA 93923. I am informed and believe that PG&E is required to deliver a current at
- 26 regulated voltage to my residence, compatible with the Uniform Building Code and the electrical
- 27 standards for standard household appliances and instruments, including forced air heaters, stereo
- 28 gear, and surge protectors.

1 3. On January 6, 2019 at approximately 6:30 p.m. the electrical wiring in my home was 2 struck by a powerful electrical surge, or spike. I was standing in the kitchen of my home when 3 this happened. I heard buzzing, circuit breakers snapping and lightbulbs popping for a second or 4 two. The lightbulbs in the kitchen glowed with great intensity for a second, and many of them
5 blew out. The lightbulbs in fixtures down the hallway blew out with loud pops.

6 4. Following this incident I switched tripped circuit breakers back on and I discovered many 7 items in my home were ruined by the electrical spike.

8 5. The industrial strength surge protector, installed on the main electrical service line 9 coming into my house was blown. This unit was designed to shunt a current many times the 10 normal voltage supplied by PG&E. I had previously had this surge protector installed by an 11 electrician because of other spikes in the electric service that caused damage. At least 6 indoor 12 surge protectors, which computers and audio-visual equipment were plugged into for protection
13 were ruined. I took one of them apart and found that a large capacitor in it actually had blown 14 apart. I hired an electrician to replace the ruined surge protectors both on the outside of the 15 building, on the main line, and inside in the circuit boxes. The electrician's bill was $2,099.52.
16 (See attached claim form pages 1 and 4 with attached invoices).

17 6. The electrical spike ruined some of my stereo and tv equipment, all of which was plugged
18 into surge protectors. The spike damaged an audio/visual amplifier, a high-end dvd/compact 19 disc player, power adaptor, and surge protector. My audio/visual contractor replaced the 20 damaged equipment, and the charge was $2,348.63. (See attached claim form pages 1 and 2 with 21 attached invoices).

22 7. The spike also ruined the cooktop stove in my kitchen. It burned up the electronic 23 lighters, which ignite the gas when a burner is turned on. The repairman advised that it was very 24 difficult to fix the stove and that it was actually cheaper to buy a replacement rather than pay the 25 labor to fix the damaged one. The cost of the new stove was $2,308.03. (See attached claim 26 form pages 1 and 3 and attached invoice).

27 8. I discovered immediately after the spike that the forced air heater for one wing of the 28 house was not working. The heater repairman determined that the spike had ruined the blower

1 motor and modulator in the unit and had damaged a thermostat. He found that flame sensors in 2 that heater unit and in a second forced air heating unit in another wing of the house were also 3 damaged and repaired. The repair/replacement cost was $3,320.86. (See attached claim forms 4 pages 1 and 5 with attached invoices).

5 9. This is not the first instance of PG&E equipment causing unregulated electrical current 6 flows resulting in damaging spikes to my residence. I have in the past had to replace many surge 7 protectors, an expensive battery charger, stereo amplifiers, computers, two ovens, three forced 8 air heaters and numerous other appliances. I did not in those instances make a claim with 9 PG&E, but instead tried to deal with the ongoing and repeated problem of spikes, by installing 10 surge protectors, indoors, outdoors and in the circuit breaker boxes. My efforts to protect my 11 home did not work with the huge spike on January 6, 2019. Since this spike occurred, PG&E 12 has removed hundreds of trees in our neighborhood that threatened to fall on the company's 13 power lines. While the power company's recent efforts are commendable, the work should have 14 been done years ago.

15 10. My nearest neighbors, Bruce Shaw and Dennis Sorensen also suffered even greater 16 damages than I did from this spike. They have also filed claims for their losses. I am informed 17 and believe that many others in our neighborhood also suffered damage. I am informed and 18 believe that PG&E has objected to all of our claims, but has stated a different reason for said
19 objections in each case. In my case PG&E states that the reason for its objection is that PG&E 20 did not cause this damage. I did not generate the electricity that came into my home from 21 PG&E's power lines. PG&E did, and PG&E did not control the current.

22 11. My total claim is $10,077.04. This incident was clearly the fault of PG&E's failure to 23 deliver electrical power at the regulated voltage. PG&E has a history of unregulated power 24 service in my neighborhood and despite its recent efforts to fix the problem, should pay my 25 claim.

1 I declare under penalty of perjury of the laws of the State of California that the foregoing
2 statement is of my own knowledge except those statements made under information and belief,
3 and as to those things, I believe them to be true.
